

As a believer in the efficacy of competition, and a citizen who is concerned about the quality of news and other information received through the media, I urge you to keep the longstanding ownership rules in place. I fear if the (currently low, see NYTimes) quality of news and journalism continues to decline, future generations could look back on this administration as the point at which we suffered a great loss. Thank you.